

THE BLUEPRINT

Find Your Muse — Your Starter Brand Bible Workbook

Fill this in as you go through the Blueprint. By the end, it's your complete foundation.

Day 1 — Finding Your Muse

Answer honestly. There's no wrong answer here — just be specific.

What did you actually do in your last role, or what do you do now? What did people come to you for?

Who is this for? Picture one real person. What are they going through right now?

Which register fits: a coach giving it straight, a mentor sharing what they've noticed, or a creator with a strong point of view?

Your First Image Prompt

Photorealistic [person], [hair/features from your own description], natural skin texture, soft under-eye detail. Neutral, high-contrast studio setting, soft side-lighting. Photorealistic, 85mm lens, high-fidelity texture.

Day 2 — The Transparency Flex

Disclosure isn't a limitation — it's proof of concept. State it once, in your own voice, and never revisit it.

Your disclosure line, in your own words:

Remember: Instagram's own "AI Creator" profile label (under Edit Profile) is a genuine trust signal, not a liability — worth turning on if you're disclosing there.

Day 3 — Their First Scene

A presence doesn't just show a face. It shows a world. One setting, one scene — small and doable.

Scene-Blocking Template

[Character reference] sitting relaxed in a cozy, minimalist room corner. A plain, textured warm neutral wall behind them, softly lit by golden-hour side lighting. Cinematic depth of field.

The foundation is real. Now, where it goes next.

Want the cinematic, luxury register — the visual world that turns an avatar into an icon? That's the Cinematic Studio.

Ready for the whole system — brand to monetised, built end to end? That's The Faceless Studio.

No pressure either way. The foundation is already yours.
